

Dr. Francesca Ferroni is an accomplished neurobiologist currently affiliated with the University of Parma, Italy. She undertakes research in intricate areas such as the bodily self, schizophrenia, multisensory integration, and peripersonal space. Dr. Ferroni is recognized for her significant contributions to Cognitive Neuroscience and Neurobiology. In her current role as a postdoctoral fellow at the University of Parma, Dr. Ferroni's insightful work has garnered global recognition, evidenced by over 309 citations in scholarly publications. This points to the far-reaching impact and ongoing relevance of her research within the scientific community. Dr. Ferroni has an extensive portfolio of 24 scholarly publications, a testament to her profound understanding of her field and her consistent commitment to furthering knowledge within it. These works provide a comprehensive overview of her academic exploration, reaffirming her position as a key contributor to the field of neurobiology.

Francesca Ferroni

Neurobiologist,
Postdoctoral Fellow
University of Parma, Italy